DID YOU KNOW?

ARTstor shares visual documentation of archaeological excavations undertaken at ancient sites, such as the Dura-Europos and Gerasa Archives from Yale University, or the Johanna Machteld Mellink Archive of Near Eastern Archaeology from Bryn Mawr College. Columbia University has shared more than 1,200 QuickTime Virtual Reality (QTVR) panoramas, which allow scholars and students to explore architectural monuments in 360 degrees. These QTVR files include important sites from the ancient world, such as Selinute, Siracusa, and Taormina in Sicily, as well as several structures throughout Rome (Colosseum, Domus Aurea, Roman Forum, Pantheon, Baths of Caracalla, Basilica of Maxentius and Constantine, and Basilica of Santa Sabina).
